

Wireless Internet Information Connecting to the Internet during WCAMS Summer Music Camp

Trinity Western University has a wireless Internet network. You can access the network during your week at camp by registering as a guest once you arrive on campus. Instructions for registering your wireless Internet connection are on the following three pages. You will need a Visa or MasterCard to pay the $10 fee online.

Areas covered by the wireless network include:

- all classrooms
- all student dorms
- the cafeteria
- the Atrium

There is also some incidental wireless coverage outside some of the buildings, so it may be possible to sit outside and still connect to the wireless network.

If you are having trouble connecting from somewhere that does have coverage, there are a couple things that may prevent you from connecting:

- 2.4Ghz cordless phones (if connected to the analog phone jack in your room) operate on the same frequency as the WiFi Network, so such phones in close proximity to your computer will block your wireless connection.
- Microwaves also operate on the same frequency and will block your connection.

As part of the wireless Internet registration process, you must agree to Trinity Western University's Information Technology Acceptable Use Policy:

We recommend that if you use a web-based e-mail program, you save this document to your computer so that the instructions are accessible when you get to camp.
